Shukla's flight countdown

“THE REASONS included the Challenger tragedy (which occurred on January 28, 1986, resulting in the death of all seven crew members aboard), a shift in public sentiment in the West post-recession, and the fall of the USSR. As space was, back then, an endeavour solely of public institutions, geopolitical and macroeconomic considerations mattered the most,” added Chandana. Skyroot Aerospace is an Indian private aerospace manufacturer and commercial launch service provider headquartered in Hyderabad.

Shukla, 39, is among the four designated astronauts shortlisted last year for India's first-ever human space flight, scheduled for the first quarter of 2027. Later, it was announced that he would also serve as a pilot on board Axiom Mission 4 (Ax-4) to the ISS, for which the Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) is reportedly spending ₹550 crore, with the express goal of gaining experience for future crewed missions.

“Group Captain Shukla's mission will provide India with a valuable experience to observe, adopt, and improve upon,” added Chandana.

In recent times, India's human spaceflight programme took off only in 2018 when the Isro announced the Gaganyaan mission. Until then, human spaceflight was not a priority for Isro. In December that year, the Centre approved a further ₹100 billion crore for a seven-day crewed flight.

Under the Gaganyaan mission, three astronauts, often referred to as Vyomnauts or Gagannauts, are to be placed in low Earth orbit at an altitude of around 400 km for a duration of three days. “This marks a significant leap in India's space capability. Key technological milestones have been achieved, including the development of the crew module, environmental control and life support systems, and a successful test of the crew escape system through the TV-D1 mission,” said Anil Prakash, director-general of SIA-India, a leading space industry association and advocate for space exploration and technology advancement in the country.

The roadmap includes a series of uncrewed test missions, with the first (Gaganyaan-1) targeted for later this year. “The current target for the first crewed mission is 2027, following a series of uncrewed test flights, including one with a humanoid robot named Vyommitra and an emergency escape system demonstration, which was successfully tested in 2023. While the timeline has stretched, India is now in the final stages of preparation, and if all goes as planned, we are just one or two years away from realising the dream of an entirely indigenous human spaceflight,” explained Lt Gen AK Bhatt (retd), director general of the Indian Space Association (ISpA), the apex industry body of the Indian space industry.

Originally slated for June 8, Ax-4 will now lift off aboard SpaceX's Falcon-9 rocket from Florida two days later on June 10. It is a collaborative effort between Nasa, the European Space Agency (Esa) and Isro, whose “Gaganyaan programme has now entered its final phase”, as Union MoS for science and technology Jitendra Singh disclosed at a media interaction in New Delhi last month.

Calling it a “historic mission”, Singh underlined that the Gaganyaan programme goes far beyond scientific achievement. “It represents India's rise as a global space power built on indigenous technology, fiscal prudence, and visionary political leadership,” he said.

CNG car sales race ahead of diesel

FOR THEM, CNG doesn't align with their target market or future mobility goals. Still, for the mass market, CNG is emerging as a practical alternative. The fuel's growing popularity stems from rising petrol and diesel prices, the relatively low running costs of CNG (₹3-4/km), and a rapidly expanding refuelling infrastructure. The government aims to increase CNG filling stations from 7,500 in 2024 to over 18,000 by 2032.

Maruti Suzuki's extensive CNG lineup and Tata Motors' twin-cylinder technology have played a significant role in the recent growth. While Maruti offers factory-fitted CNG options across nearly all its models, Tata's innovation, placing two 30-litre CNG cylinders under the boot instead of one large tank, preserves luggage space, resolving a major drawback of traditional CNG cars. The stable pricing of CNG in recent years has also helped.

After a sharp price rise between 2021 and 2023, CNG costs have remained steady around ₹75-76/kg, making it a more predictable and appealing choice for consumers. Lastly, the conversion of petrol engines to CNG is cost-effective for automakers, as minimal re-engineering is needed. This low barrier to entry, combined with strong demand, is why the industry is fast embracing CNG, except for a few brands focused on electric futures.

Deceptive design practices

THE GOVERNMENT notified guidelines for preventing dark patterns in 2023, identifying 13 specific practices, including basket sneaking, confirm shaming, forced actions, interface interference, bait and switch tactics, drip pricing, and subscription billing traps. The directive is part of the government's broader strategy to strengthen consumer protection in the digital economy as online commerce continues to expand rapidly across the country.

GST breather for Infosys

WITH THE RECEIPT of the communication from DGGI, “this matter stands closed”, India's second-largest IT company Infosys said.

“In continuation to our earlier communications on July 31, 2024; August 1, 2024, and August 3, 2024, on GST, this is to inform that the company has today received a communication from the Director General of GST Intelligence (DGGI), closing the pre-show cause notice proceedings for the financial years 2018-19 to 2021-22,” the company said in a filing late Friday evening.

Infosys said it had received and responded to a pre-show cause notice issued by DGGI for the period July 2017 to March 2022 on the issue of non-payment of IGST under the reverse charge mechanism.

“The GST amount, as per the pre-show cause notice for this period, was Rs 32,403 crore. The company had on August 3, 2024, received a communication from DGGI, closing the pre-show cause notice proceedings for the financial year 2017-2018. With the receipt of today's communication from DGGI, this matter stands closed,” Infosys said.

India, UK hail ties on trade & terror

JAISHANKAR SAID that recent conclusion of the India-UKFTA and the Double Contribution Convention is “truly a milestone” which will not only propel two-way trade and investment but will have also have a “positive effect on other strategic aspects of our bilateral ties, it would also contribute to the strengthening of supply and value chains”.

He said the Technology Security Initiative (TSI) will enable deeper collaboration in strategic technology sectors of AI, semiconductors, telecom, quantum, healthtech/biotech, critical minerals and advanced materials. The two sides have also launched the Strategic Exports and Technology Cooperation Dialogue which will increase TSI's effectiveness in promoting trade in critical and emerging technologies, including the resolution of relevant licensing or regulatory issues.

He also said the UK-India infrastructure financial bridge can “unlock quality long term capital flows from the United Kingdom to India,” and that “would surely contribute to our infrastructure development”.
